

CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS: Judges for Student Contests

BACKGROUND: TMS, the TMS Foundation, and our five technical divisions award students for their work in materials science and engineering through many avenues of competition. Student members have the opportunity to apply for a number of scholarships. Students are encouraged to submit essays on global or national issues as well as technical research papers, relating to any field of metallurgy or materials science. A student poster contest is held each year at the TMS Annual Meeting & Exhibition. Annual travel allowances are granted to individual students and chapters wishing to attend the TMS annual meeting and MS&T. All of these competitions require judges.

NATURE OF WORK: Judge Material Advantage student papers, posters, scholarships, and travel grants.

DURATION OF WORK: A typical time for commitment is one to two months, depending on your availability to judge more than one contest. We prefer those in government and business, however, as long as there is no student, current or prior, involved in the contest from your school or university, we will gladly use your knowledge and talents to help make a judgment on the winners.

BENEFITS: As your professional partner for career advancement, TMS provides members with many opportunities for leadership roles within the society and the opportunity to assist the next generation of scientists & engineers.

HOW TO VOLUNTEER: Provide your name & contact information to the staff in the Volunteer Concierge Booth or contact us by e-mail at volunteer@tms.org.
