CORPORATE SPONSORSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

Why Become a Sponsor?

The International Conference on Silicon Carbide and Related Materials has become the preeminent forum to discuss new research results and assess the true "state of the art" for SiC, gallium nitride (GaN) and other related wide bandgap semiconductors—spanning the spectrum from fundamental science of materials through device performance.

Semiconductor materials science and technology have provided a solid foundation for the remarkable performance of current electronic and optical device technology. Silicon carbide has been studied for decades, but recent development has firmly established commercial products in optical, RF and power components.

Who Attends?

Individuals actively engaged or interested in electronic materials research and development.

Topics Covered:

- Materials Growth (Bulk and Epitaxial)
- Materials Characterization and Theory
- Device Processing
- Device Optimization/Performance

Sponsorship Benefits:

Special events and social functions will be held during the meeting, presenting ideal opportunities for companies involved in SI technology to support the event and receive outstanding corporate recognition.

- Prominent on-site signage
- Recognition in the meeting program
- Posting to the ICSCRM 2005 Web site
- Recognition at sponsored activity via announcements
