Collected Proceedings (NEW for 2013):

Free online access to Annual Meeting proceedings content will be provided to attendees in all registration classes. Attendees will be given a Web address and log-in details that will give them two options for accessing 2013 proceedings content: (1) as an e-book bundle, which will offer all proceedings papers through a single download, or (2) as single-paper PDF files. Complimentary proceedings content will be available online the first day of the meeting and must be downloaded before September 3, 2013, at which time standard pricing will take effect. A collected proceedings CD-ROM will not be available during or after the meeting.

Managing Technical and Financial Risk in a New Technology Project Environment

Sunday, March 3, 2013

The natural outcomes of new technology "mega-projects" seem to be technological success but financial failure. All those who have "failed" before us were just as intelligent, educated and experienced as we are. The best way to avoid sharing their fate is to study their "modes" of failure and improve our project management systems accordingly. This is a one-day course.

.....$525.....$575.....$600.....$650

Modeling Electrodeposition in Materials Processing Operations

Sunday, March 3, 2013

This course will cover the basics of modeling transport-limited electrodeposition, including fluid dynamics, for materials processes from molten salt electrolysis to electrorefining to electroplating. This is a one-day course.
